$30,000,000 in Subsidies Paid In Past Year

OTTAWA, Dec. 4.—(CP)—Total subsidies paid through the Price Control Corporation since inception of the over-all price ceiling in 1939-40, amounted to approximately $30,000,000, Mr. McKinnon, corporation chairman, said at a press conference today.

Mr. McKinnon made the announcement as reporters associated in the office of Finance Minister Fisher, who last night announced a program of subsidies to stabilize the cost-of-living index. This new program, including tax reductions, will cost $40,000,000 a year in addition to previous subsidy commitments which so far have cost $20,000,000.

Mr. McKinnon said the subsidy program would be financed by increases in shipping costs on imported articles, and by increases in domestic items—including food, clothing, and household goods. He said the subsidies would be paid to the producers of the goods.

Canadian War Heroes Honored At Investiture

By FRANK FLAHERTY
OTTAWA, Dec. 4.—(CP)—Brave deeds and good work on the part of 89 persons in far-flung Canada received formal recognition at Government House yesterday when the Earl of Strathmore held the largest investiture of honors and decorations ever to take place in Canada.

High-ranking officers and humble privates, airmen and seamen as well as two civilians, stood before the King's representative to receive personally the honors they were granted personally.

The traditions of war were also in evidence since 10 of the honored men are dead. Their medals were received by relatives—a father, a brother and black-shirted widows and mothers.

HELD IN BALLROOM
The ceremony took place in the ballroom. The governor-general wearing his khaki service uniform as an honorary major-general in the British army, stood on a dais. Prime Minister Allen Weston presided. He wore the blue uniform of commandant of the R.C.A.F. (women's division). State Secretary for the Interior was the minister in attendance on the governor-general.

Sir Shuldham Redfern, the governor-general's principal secretary, presided over the ceremony. He was to be honored and the citations stating the reasons for the honors were read. As each person's name was called he came forward.

Presenting the three armed services were Defence Minister Balton and Maj.-Gen. H. P. G. Lethbridge, Adjutant-General of the army; Navy Minister Macdonald and Vice-Admiral Sir John D. Neill, chief of the naval staff; and Air Minister Power and Air Marshal L. S. Brasher, chief of the air staff.

Minister Lester, a distant relative of the late P. L. D. M. of the British Empire, was there. He presented the three armed services were Defence Minister Balton and Maj.-Gen. H. P. G. Lethbridge, Adjutant-General of the army; Navy Minister Macdonald and Vice-Admiral Sir John D. Neill, chief of the naval staff; and Air Minister Power and Air Marshal L. S. Brasher, chief of the air staff.

TEACHER HONORED

Mrs. Francis Walsh, the Big Sister, who saved the lives of two children who were in a burning plane landed in her schoolyard, was the only woman to receive an award on this occasion.

There were a trim black dress and black hat as she accepted her George Medal. The man she attributed to saving the lives of the two children, suffered last night from a brain attack while trying to escape the other occupant of the plane.

The posthumous award of the George Cross to Sgt. Gravel was the first on the list for the investiture and the Cross was awarded to the airman's father, Carl Gravel.

Other relatives who received posthumous awards to the king were:

Mrs. R. H. Gland, on behalf of her husband, the late Acting Capt. R. H. Gland, of the Royal Canadian Air Force, who was killed in action while making an officer of the Order of the British Empire (military).

R. K. Colling, on behalf of his brother, Lieut. W. E. Colling, of the Royal Canadian Air Force, who was killed in action while making an officer of the Order of the British Empire (military).

Bracken Lists 5 Points For War, Post-War

WINNIPEG, Dec. 4.—(CP)—Prime Minister Bracken of Manitoba last night asked Canadians to pledge themselves to a five-point war and post-war program including reduction of Canada's material and human resources in the most efficient manner possible.

Bracken, addressing the 38th annual convention of the Union of Manitoba Municipalities, said that the war on the front line is at least a young man's war so that it is a war for the post-war world that will be worthy of their sacrifice. He urged:

1.—Waging total war for victory and the mobilizing in the most efficient manner possible of all material and human resources to that end.

2.—Making a maximum attempt in the post-war period to achieve full employment for Canadians together with economic security for all of them, and the political stability in the state which full employment would bring about.

3.—Giving a square deal to all after the war and what is after the war have been lost and to the victors and the vanquished have first received larger rewards out of the national income.

4.—Setting up of such industrial relations policy as will assure to the worker a fair day's pay for a day's work, to the employer a fair return on his investment, and to the private enterprise a fair reward for the risk it takes in providing employment.

5.—Joining with other countries to accomplish by removal of trade barriers or otherwise, a greater measure of international trade which is the lifeblood of an exporting economy such as that of Canada.

DEADLY MACHINE Infantry Proves Worth In Desert Rout of Foe

By ROSS MUNRO
SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Dec. 4.—(CP)—The P.B.I. (Poor Bloody Infantry) are at last getting some of the glory that is due them. In the desert west of El Alamein and along the shores of Algeria and Tunisia, troops of the Eighth Army and the First Army and the American Task Forces showed that infantrymen, when well-equipped and supported and given half a chance, can roll up major victories.

Most of the African battalions are first and foremost infantrymen. The P.B.I. might be a commando or a paratrooper, but they all depend in the long run on their own two feet.

No matter when or where the second front is opened in Europe, you can be certain that the infantry will be there to form the backbone.

Battle schools in Britain gave the P.B.I. a new place in the army and replaced old-fashioned units with realistic training which has turned infantry formations into really fighting machines.

ANSWER TO TANKS
The vindication of the infantrymen, through this training and recent tests in battle, has to a degree resulted from the fact that armoured forces have been found to have a weakness.

In Stalingrad, Russian P.B.I.'s packed houses and streets with guns and held off Nazi tanks for months. In the desert, the Eighth Army made use of its tanks in unit with great mine fields backed by great mine fields.

So, the infantrymen, on the defensive into practice for attacks, the British are using great numbers of anti-tank guns, and aerial bombardment to soften up the enemy until the P.B.I. comes in with automatic weapons, mortars and the old reliable bayonet.

CHEMISTRY HELPS TO WIN THE WAR

Oil—used in machining metals—must be removed before finishing can take place. In the language of the trade these metals must be "degreased."

Time was when degreasing was a slow, tedious process. Today, a product of industrial chemistry does it better, does it faster. The product has a long name—trichloroethylene—but its work is done in seconds. Metal parts are now dry-cleaned by passing them through a controlled vapor of trichloroethylene. Oil and dirt fall away—even from the deepest crevices—leaving the surface chemically free of foreign matter... ready for plating, painting or any other finish.

The use of trichloroethylene means time saved—a boon to Canada's war effort. In aircraft and mechanized transport trichloroethylene cleans engines and moving parts of oil, grease and dirt, making possible quicker, closer inspection.

Introduced to Canada a few years ago by Canadian Industries Limited, trichloroethylene is produced from domestic raw materials by the Organic Chemicals Division of C-I-L at Shawinigan Falls. Production of this important chemical solvent is adequate for the demands of war-stimulated industry.

Trichloroethylene is another of the many C-I-L products of industrial chemistry which are aiding Canada's War Effort.

Black Aliens Register 4-2 Win Over Toronto

Toe Blake Draws $25 Talk Ticket

MONTREAL, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Montreal Canadiens broke their losing streak Thursday night when they turned back the Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2 in a rugged National Hockey League fixture here. Leafs put up a game struggle but the Canadiens were exhibiting a better defense than they had shown in some time and Toronto couldn't break it.

Toe Blake was fined $25 in the closing minute of play after he had been given a minor penalty for interference and a 10-minute misconduct penalty for disputing the decision. Officials said he was fined in addition to the misconduct penalty for disputing the penalty for interference.

Tossing the puck over his head, Blake left the ice with 40 seconds to go, but the Leafs failed to take advantage of the extra man on the ice.

Lorne Carr gave the Leafs a one-goal lead after the game had reached the mid-way mark in the first period. Carr added position in the first period, but the Leafs were unable to score. Carr was given a minor penalty for interference and was given passes by Bill Taylor and Gave Stewart.

Canadians forced the Leafs to adopt defensive tactics in the second frame and after 15 minutes of play Terry Braden tied the score with Toe Blake and Blum Bouchard assisting.

Bouchard had carried the puck into the Toronto defense area and then passed to Blake. Blake feinted a shot which drew Terry Braden from the nets and then passed it to Braden. Braden took the puck into an open goal.

For the Leafs, the Canadiens into a one-goal lead two minutes later after he had scored the first goal of the game. Blake with a hard shot from close distance, just as the Leafs were closing. Gave Stewart made a solo rush that caught Blum Bouchard off guard and shot from the left side of the rink tied the score again.

In the closing frame Leo Lamoreaux drew a long shot from the line into the Leafs' goal. Braden took the puck into the goal. The official attendance was 1,642.

SLIM CROWD SEES CHICAGO MOVE UP
CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Chicago's move up in the major league clubs was reflected in the fact that the Chicago Black Hawks Thursday night defeated New York Rangers 4-2 before a scant crowd of 4,720 and for the third time this season won the game with the Detroit Red Wings for the National Hockey League title.

Spotting the Rangers a goal in the opening period, the Hawks hooked up a strong defense that thwarted the New Yorkers for the remainder of the rough match. It was the first time in three games this year that Chicago was able to take the earliest for a victory.

At 12:55 of the initial period, Grant Warwick connected a Ranger shot on a sharp pass from Al Pike for Lynn Patrick's sustained defense. Patrick had weakened goalie Bert Gardner.

Cully Dahlstrom knotted the score at 14:44, stealing the puck near mid ice and cutting his way through the Ranger defense with a shot. Twelve seconds later, he scored again. The Hawks ahead on passes from Dahlstrom and George Allen.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(BUP)—That Armstrong-Robinson announcement, which early Thursday galloped over the wires out of Portland, Ore., doubtless will be greeted with mingled gratification and apprehension by eastern boxing fans.

The announcement said that Henry Armstrong, the little peripatetic motion man who once wore three ring crowns, will climax his surprising comeback by fighting on Friday night, Jan. 23, for the "duration" welterweight title. Armstrong, a 110-pounder, was last seen in the ring in 1936, when he was 27, and had been out of the ring for five years.

At the time of his death, Henry Armstrong was practically broke and, Eddie and Henry, one of the most successful and popular teams ever to hit 4th Street, were fast men with the dollars.

AFTER MRS. DEATH, Armstrong came out of retirement. He needed money and he had to get it with his fists. His comeback campaign has been surprisingly successful. It was high lighted on Oct. 26 by a round victory over ex-champion Zivic at San Francisco, a triumph that must have given Armstrong good satisfaction.

The Zivic victory apparently convinced Promoter Mike Jacobs that Armstrong's comeback was the "McKay" so he began negotiations to bring Henry back to New York. The little Los Angeles negro would fit perfectly into the war time picture, champion Freddie Cochrane is in the navy, his "title" fight for the duration, Armstrong, one of the most popular, worshipping him ever to lose leather in New York, would fill the gap perfectly.

Robinson, slender young Harlem negro was the outstanding contender, since Cleveland Jackie Wilson was in the army. But another top flight contender was needed to meet Robinson in a "title" bout. Zivic wouldn't do because Robinson had kicked him twice, slapping him the second time. Armstrong, one of the most popular, worshipping him ever to lose leather in New York, would fill the gap perfectly.

Robinson, who combines the speed of a puma with the kick of a peacock, is a target to aim with battered eyes like Henry's. It would be one of the ring's great stories if Armstrong, with his hilling, crashing boxing style, could end Robinson's winning streak. But the seasoned boxer men will all at the ring for this fight, will be more concerned with the possibilities of an Armstrong strong victory.

Majors End Quiet Session

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The major leagues concluded their winter meeting Thursday and many of the baseball men began moving toward home without having accomplished any important objective.

Meeting with Commissioner Kennesaw M. Landis yesterday at a joint session, the National and American Leagues voted to continue last year's practice of each club staging one home game for War Relief and the other for the Red Cross.

Recommendations for a new rule for night games at 11 for each club except Washington, which again was permitted 21.

Suggestions from John B. Hartman, director of the office of defense transportation, that travel be reduced next season were discussed, but the problem already had been referred to the individual clubs and brought no new action.

The committee representing the Chicago Council of the Congress of Industrial Organizations attempted to appear before the meeting to argue for the inclusion of Negroes on major league teams, but was denied audience after varying Leslie O'Connor, secretary to the committee, that if not heard the group would protest to the fair employment practice committee.

The Landis meeting over, there was only a one-day convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, the minors' organization left. The session was held at the Waldorf-Astoria.

After long hours of standing in the lobby of the Palmer Hotel, the only player transfer completed was Chicago White Sox purchase of three minor league players.

Only prominent baseball figure to close a contract was Leo (Gabby) Hartnett, former manager of Chicago Cubs, who signed a two-year contract as the playing pilot of Jersey City, New Jersey, Giants in the International League.

Hartnett's great desire to play in the American Association last year.

At Jersey City he will succeed Frank (Pancho) Snyder, who resigned recently.

Court Reserves Judgment on Bail Estreat

Judgment was reserved by Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor in the supreme court Thursday in the application by the agent for the attorney-general, J. W. McLaughlin, K.C., for the estreat of bail entered into by H. Hill and H. Martin on July 7 last for the appearance of John E. Hoff, Jasper, on charges of gross indecency.

Gerald O'Connor, K.C., representing Hoff, submitted that the bail entered into by Hill and Martin was discharged when Hoff attended for his trial in supreme court on Oct. 8 and 9, and that the bail entered into subsequent to his conviction by Martin and Pappas was the nature of a new bond and could not be construed as additional bail.

CONDITION CHANGED
He said that the condition of the bail was changed which also indicated clearly that it was a new bond and not an additional one. He submitted many law citations to support his argument.

Mr. O'Connor said that the Martin and Pappas bond was new in both in amount, in condition and in purpose, and in the circumstances submitted that the application for estreat should be dismissed, and an order should be made to discharge the bond entered into by Martin and Hill.

Mr. McLaughlin said that he objected to the new bond being raised to the validity of the original bail, and if this bail had been released it could only have been through some operation of law. The fact that Hill refused to continue on bail, or to go on the second bond did not release him. He had made application to the court for release from the bail, and through his silence has continued on the bond.

He submitted that the new bail was additional to the existing bond and added that it was conceivable that the court would accept a lower bail bond after conviction when the temptation to abscond would have been increased.

CLAIMS PREJUDICE
J. N. McDonald, K.C., appearing for Martin, submitted that Martin had been prejudiced because of the adjournments granted to Hoff without notice to the bondsmen. There was indefiniteness as to where Hoff was to appear, and that the bond should not be enforced against the bondsmen. He submitted also that time was the essence of the bond, and that the court, by adjournment of such the bondsmen were not notified, had extended the time of the bond and had therefore prejudiced them.

A. W. Miller, K.C., counsel for Hoff, intimated to the court that he had received two letters from Hoff and asked Mr. Justice O'Connor to advise him relative to his professional duty with respect to the letters. Mr. Miller asked if he should treat them as communications between solicitor and client and therefore privileged, or should he make them available to the police. Mr. Justice O'Connor took the question under advisement.

STIMULATES ACTION Premier Sees Weakness In Beveridge Proposal But Lauds Forward Step

Premier William Aberhart, in a prepared statement released Thursday night on Sir William Beveridge's plan for government-sponsored social security, said it "is on a par with borrowing ourselves out of debt, or lifting ourselves by our own bootstraps."

In his statement of comment on the Beveridge report made public in London Monday, the Premier said:

"Sir William's plan pre-supposes, and therefore admits, that want exists. Such want exists obviously because the people have insufficient purchasing power. How can it be possible, therefore, to drain off 10 per cent or 11 per cent of the existing purchasing power and by redistributing it, eliminate want? That would be an attempt to abolish poverty by spreading it over a great number. It is on a par with borrowing ourselves out of debt, or lifting ourselves by our own bootstraps."

PURCHASING POWER
Sir William's plan pre-supposes, and therefore admits, that want exists. Such want exists obviously because the people have insufficient purchasing power. How can it be possible, therefore, to drain off 10 per cent or 11 per cent of the existing purchasing power and by redistributing it, eliminate want? That would be an attempt to abolish poverty by spreading it over a great number. It is on a par with borrowing ourselves out of debt, or lifting ourselves by our own bootstraps."

ACTUARIAL BASIS
"To quote the press report of the Beveridge plan, it would involve payment of benefits on an actuarial basis, rather than on a basis of specific need..." In other words, benefits would be paid on the basis of the amount of money collected and on hand rather than on the basis of specific needs and requirements of the people."

Premier Aberhart's statement follows in full:

"I read with much interest the published proposals of Sir William Beveridge for social security in the United Kingdom, and I took it to be most significant that these questions are receiving the serious attention of those in high authority. Evidently it is becoming very apparent that something must be done if our present system is going to be made able to function properly, and not collapse under its own weight."

The basis of the now thoroughly discredited orthodox financial system is that it imposes arbitrary restrictions on economic activity, making the latter conform to financial limitations irrespective of the people's needs or of the resources available to satisfy their requirements.

To quote the press report of the Beveridge plan, it would involve "payment of benefits on an actuarial basis, rather than on a basis of specific need..." In other words, benefits would be paid on the basis of the amount of money collected and on hand rather than on the basis of the specific needs and requirements of the people.

This means, in simple terms, that benefits will be paid only so long as the money is available. It does not provide that the government shall have the right to increase the purchasing power of the people. It is not going to be a case of meeting a need, but only of providing an expediency.

UNDER COMPULSION
Sir William's plan, supposedly, proposes a comprehensive system of free medical, dental, hospital, nursing and convalescent services. But, since every citizen will contribute under compulsion, it is obvious that the system is anything but free.

According to the press reports, Sir William frankly admits that his plan "would not solve the problem of cyclical mass unemployment, such as that of all industrial nations in 1929." That is a courageous thing to say. He admits, therefore, that his plan will not achieve the very thing that the Atlantic Charter...

The majority of authorities will agree with Sir William when he says, "Now when the war is abolishing landmarks of every kind it is an opportunity for using our experience in a clear field. A revolutionary movement in the world's history is the time for revolution and not for patching."

The people will say "Amos" to that but those capable of understanding Sir William's proposal in the light of the need for an economic system which adds purchasing power "then it is merely patching. He is not changing the old economy of scarcity one iota. He is still adhering to the doctrine that money and credit compromise a limited private controlled commodity rather than an efficient public utility which should be so managed that it will supply freedom from want, freedom from fear, and above all, FREEDOM."

However, we should be glad that at least it has had the result of focusing attention on this vitally important issue. I am sincerely convinced that it will have the effect of stimulating us all in this country to give more thought to this question and to take action in the matter—doing so with vision, courage and wholesome respect for realities and for the freedoms for which we are fighting.

Church Is Ready to Give Leadership in Post-War Planning Rev. McMinn Says

Long range post-war planning is required and the church stands ready to give leadership and guidance in its establishment, the Rev. A. K. McMinn, minister of McDougal United Church, declared in a sermon delivered at his church last Sunday, Nov. 28. "We must begin now and not procrastinate," he declared.

A world society must be established. "This may seem a little odd, but it must be attempted, for the alternative is chaos and endless trouble otherwise unnecessary," he declared.

Partial text of Mr. McMinn's sermon follows: "Some Preliminaries to the Peace," Mark 16:7. "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature."

I speak to you on this subject under a sense of spiritual and moral compulsion because I am convinced it is becoming increasingly urgent that we be prepared in advance for the time when we must meet. One of these days within the next two years—possibly within the next year—a radio program will be interrupted to make the momentous announcement: "The Germans have asked for an armistice."

What then? Will we be ready with sane and constructive guidance to guide action contributed to the public opinion that will be determining in the peace making? Will we have great basic principles?

NATURAL REACTION

The first and most natural reaction to an armistice is likely to be wild and unreasoned demonstration followed by feasting and merriment and indulgence and by the time that is over we are as usual for the gigantic and glorious task before us as some people are on the morning after the night before. We must be prepared ahead to exercise restraint until the first expression of our emotions be made in thanksgiving to God through worship, in prayer and praise, by hymns and psalms, anthems and oratorios. And let our thanksgiving be in word only; arrangements should be made for great thanksgiving to be used to rehabilitate our mission among the world that the power of the word of God be made manifest in daily available for all whose lives are crushed and whose faith and hope are well nigh gone.

This will be a wholesome, helpful thing to do for the people who will bring inspiration to those who need it most and will fit us for the next step even as unrestrained demstration and feasting would until us. It will subside and eliminate the tendency to self glorification and to jealousy and rivalry over the part played by each nation in the war by giving the glory to God. And it will help to mutual understanding and mutual sympathy and inspire us to fulfill the apostolic injunction "in honor preferring one another." It will provide the atmosphere and the setting in which we can have vision of the new world God would create out of the ruins and of the next practical steps to be taken as co-workers with God; and it will make possible a Pentecost of spiritual dynamism for the task. For it is surely when we are facing our most possible task in the name of God that He endows us and makes the impossible possible.

The 2nd (Reserve) Battalion, Edmonton Fusiliers, was one of the Edmonton Garrison units inspected at the Prince of Wales Army Thursday night by Maj-Gen. B. W. Browne, D.S.O., M.C., director-general of the Reserve Army. He is shown passing through the ranks of the battalion. Beside him is Lt. T. B. Diplock, platoon commander. Behind Maj-Gen. Browne is Brig. F. M. W. Harvey, V.C., M.C., district officer commanding M.D. No. 13, and behind him is Lt-Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D. area commander. Lt.-Col. H. E. Pearson, M.C., officer commanding the battalion, is beside Lt-Col. Brown.

MUST BEGIN NOW

But that requires long range and large scale thinking and planning, and if we are to be ready we must begin now without procrastination.

The second preliminary to the peace might well be feasting and merriment, jubilation and rejoicing. You say we need that, and it is coming to us after the strain of the years of strife. I admit that it is justified and legitimate, especially in this order, following the thanksgiving proposed. It would be in a manner and in an atmosphere which would help to prepare us for the next step, the great task before the feast; should keep the words: "And keep us mindful of the needs of others."

Such feasting and rejoicing would be justified only after service of thanksgiving and if we have already made provision for feeding and clothing and housing the nations and peoples who, like the man on the battlefield, have been robbed and wounded and left half dead by the world bandits and destroyers.

If necessary our own feasting and rejoicing should be delayed until we can engage in it with the knowledge that this is being done. Then let us feast and rejoice together. Let the world join in every corner, arm. That would be a mighty witness to the love of God and the truth of brotherhood, and incidentally it would be a powerful moral judgment upon those who had been chiefly responsible for bringing such suffering and devastation upon the world—a real strategic gain in bringing right and wrong into bold relief.

Again we need the co-operation of governments which have called upon us to help as churches can help. Resources of food and clothing and medicine and other materials for housing and help of the world's people should be available. The trains and ships and planes that have carried munitions of war should be available to carry these things to every area of need and destinations. The governments, the staffs and organizations of the Red Cross, the army medical units, and the army supply units that can be spared should be made available without delay for this re-creative and recreative ministry. We understand that some identical steps have been taken in Canada and in the United States to have food ready to ship to the places of need. But the church should not be in any second place in this manifold ministry of the Gospel in which the world is made fresh, and it is to be done and done well so that it will prove the blessing of God and be of strategic value morally and spiritually in laying the foundations of a new order and a lasting peace there and here.

The third preliminary to the peace should be the hammering out of the basis of peace upon the swirl of judicial process at Berlin and Rome and Tokyo, bringing right and wrong into relief above the moral confusion due to the war and laying an ethical basis for action. Menon, Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin have each independently declared that it is their intention and purpose to bring to trial those who have been responsible for the crimes of the war against civilization in this war.

While that is not explicitly our business as churches we are not less concerned with it than with our own. It is a matter of concern and our interest in the value of the results will largely depend on that inquiry. A world court, if we have a world court, at least in the form of a world court, is in the making. It implies a vision of the world even though in elementary and elemental form: it exists in international commitments and in the great principles of justice and equity and humanity which are accepted by enlightened consciences in every civilized land and that constitute the basis of the British "common law."

It implies a basis of common and reputable jurists and judges. These are available to us if we take the steps in time. Again this implies large scale and long range thinking and planning and we must begin now without procrastination.

JUDICIAL PROGRESS

The thing of most importance for the peace in this judicial process will not be the trial and discipline of those charged with crimes against humanity that are involved in this global war, but the revelation of the world in the truth as to the facts of the whole situation and the nullification of the evil effects of lying propaganda and the barbarous teaching of the Nazis and Fascists. The court itself should center the news that is disseminated from its seat in the capital mentioned so that it would contain the findings and conclusions of the court and the moral matter as consistent with the findings. We are not assuming that only those in enemy countries or citizens of enemy countries are likely to be put on trial.

Such a judicial process would mean the application of the two great principles of justice and mercy which would eliminate the two evils of revenge and sentimentalism which alike are devoid of the spiritual and ethical values that constitute the substance of a lasting peace and which work well to all concern.

We must make sure to pattern peace upon the "goodness and severity of God" of which St. Paul speaks in his epistle to the Romans. The law and the Gospel belong together and must never be separated by man. The law is ever the background of the Gospel.

The fourth preliminary to the peace is the development of a disciplined and defined public opinion concerning the basic principles and aims of the peace. That can only be done by prayerful and thoughtful discussion, and that takes time. To define the guiding principles and aims of a world society may seem a tall order, but it must be attempted for the alternative is chaos and endless trouble otherwise unnecessary.

CHURCH RESPONSIBLE

The church which is the trustee of the spiritual truth and ethical truth which are the essence of all truth must rise to her responsibility here. As Archbishop Temple has already declared it is the right and the duty of the church to lay down the guiding principles of a new life as well as of individual life. The guiding principles of the church are basically spiritual principles and must be based on the principles of the peace are concerned with spiritual, moral and human values. Greater in importance than any direct statement of these principles and aims is the spirit manifested in the ethical practice and the human interest displayed in carrying out the foregoing proposals. These things properly done lay the foundation in fact and effectively illustrate the principles by which the church should live. The paper may be vague and impossible, and merely postpone the thing to be done. Economics and politics of necessity rest back upon this foundation. Governments and representative public men have declared again and again that we are fighting to preserve Christian civilization and have called upon the church to help.

The church has helped upon a church—that is, doing the work and rendering the ministry a church by its nature should render. Force of arms may save civilization from the destroyers, if an unchristian morality is supplied by the church; but force of arms cannot create or advance civilization. Even governments can do it alone. Only the church that is faithful to the great commission given by our Lord in the test associated with this subject can do that. "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature."

That great commission and the supreme obligation it imposes should be the background of all our thought and effort. And in the peace making the governments should recognize the place and function of the church not less than in the war. TO GIVE LEADERSHIP

The church is now organized to give leadership throughout the world in this matter of defining the guiding principles and stating the values which the peace seeks to conserve, and in all the foregoing preliminaries she is ready to act so that she can lay the basis of these guiding principles and aims in fact, and thereby lay the foundation of the new order before the peace table is set. There are federal councils of the churches in various countries now, and there is in existence a world council of churches through which the churches can function. Action of this kind will do more to consolidate the organization and make it a potent reality than all the theories we can propound for the Gospel came not in word only.

In the providence of God the chances of service are there, and if we are sensitive to the Spirit's leading and to the global opportunities that arise out of this global tragedy, we will make these organizations effective agencies here. As Archbishop Temple has already declared it is the right and the duty of the church to lay down the guiding principles of a new life as well as of individual life. The guiding principles of the church are basically spiritual principles and must be based on the principles of the peace are concerned with spiritual, moral and human values. Greater in importance than any direct statement of these principles and aims is the spirit manifested in the ethical practice and the human interest displayed in carrying out the foregoing proposals. Passenger Traffic Reveals Increase Patronage on the street railway system for the 11 months ending Nov. 30, 1942, totaled 18,858,792, compared with 15,540,000 for the same period last year, an increase of 3,318,792, figures released Friday by Thomas Ferrier, street railway superintendent, revealed.

For the first time in the history of the system more than 2,000,000 passengers were carried in any one month. This was during November. Daily ridership peaked at 100,000 on street cars, despite the fact that the service was interrupted for several days owing to the severe snow storm.

Passenger carried during November 1941 totaled 13,535,138, to give an increase for November this year of 5,323,654 or 37 per cent.

Distribution of Commodities Is Major Problem

Infux of personnel into Edmonton and northern territory in connection with war projects has created a commodity distribution problem which necessitates a turn of mind. It is estimated that in this district to insure that this territory is getting its fair share of commodities available. E. W. Smart, Toronto, assistant administrator of wholesale trade, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, stated on his arrival here Friday.

After completion of his work here he will make a similar survey in British Columbia and points that have expanded considerably through the nation's war effort.

Difficult Task

He said that it was not possible to meet all requests for merchandise in the territories that have expanded abnormally, but it was possible to arrange that equitable distribution was made in all territories.

The said that reports that small retail stores would be closed was absolutely false and malicious. "There was never any intention to suggest that retail stores would be closed," he stated.

Squads Parade Here

Wingard Leader R. P. Ogle, R.C. Air, supervisory officer at No. 2 Air Observer School here, will present wings to two classes of observers and bombardiers, in graduation ceremony Friday. The ceremony is being held at 3 p.m. in the Knights of Columbus hall at No. 2 A.O.S.

Assistant Manager Mike Finland of local school will present awards to students who headed their respective classes.

Every normal year American women would more than $100,000,000 worth of fur garments to their wardrobes.

Veterans' guard member at North Bay, Sgt. F. H. Malmoff, Redbridge, is the corps' chief observer in his district. He has just spotted a plane flying low with engine sputtering and telephones his report from his general store to information centre, where plane is located on a map.

Warbirds at Midway

In the skies and on the sands at Midway, birds of war are familiar and reassuring sights to the American forces on guard at that island outpost. High above the reefs off Midway, above, a protective patrol of U.S. fighter planes is ever-ready to take on any enemy force that might try to attack this base again.
